

Strategic Plan

2018 – 2021

13 Great King Street • Edinburgh • EH3 6QW
Telephone 0131 557 9800

admin@familiesoutside.org.uk
www.familiesoutside.org.uk

Table of Contents

I.	Description of Business	2
•	Summary
•	Vision
•	Mission Statement
•	Core Values, Principles, & Beliefs
•	Brief History
II.	Current Challenges	4
•	Consultation on the future structure of community justice
•	Single Outcomes
•	Prison population
•	Financial hardship and welfare reform
•	Referendum on Scottish Independence
III.	Key Objectives and Targets 2018 – 2021	5
•	Key Objectives for 2018 - 2021
•	Targets for 2018 - 2021

Description of Business

Summary

Imprisonment is a traumatic experience for families, and its impact is often significant and enduring. The imprisonment of a relative has an impact on the social, emotional, financial and, especially for children and young people, educational development of the remaining family members.

Families Outside is the only national organisation that works exclusively on behalf of families affected by imprisonment in Scotland.

Families Outside is recognised as a national Scottish charity by the Inland Revenue and is constituted as a Company Limited by Guarantee.

Vision

Our vision is for families affected by imprisonment to be treated with justice and fairness so that they can live healthy, active lives free from stigma and disadvantage.

Mission Statement

Families Outside works to improve outcomes for children and families affected by imprisonment.

Core Values, Principles, and Beliefs

- Families Outside is committed to equality and diversity.
- Family members should not be judged or discriminated against because a member of their family has been imprisoned.
- The responsibility for ensuring that families are not disadvantaged due to imprisonment of a family member lies with agencies in the social justice, inclusion (e.g. housing, employment, benefits), education, health, and care systems as well as with agencies in the criminal justice system. We therefore develop and promote partnerships with such organisations in order to achieve our goals. Where competition for funding is unavoidable, we will maintain open and honest dialogue with the other parties in order to maintain positive relationships.
- The needs of families affected by imprisonment in Scotland should be researched, acknowledged, and reflected in public policy and sustainable, accessible, and empowering services made available to meet these needs.
- Where appropriate to the families' best interests, relationships with their relative in prison should be actively supported and maintained and recognised as a significant contribution to reducing reoffending. Children separated from a parent due to imprisonment have the right to maintain their relationship with an imprisoned parent (as determined in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child).
- Our effectiveness will be measured by outcomes for individual families (e.g. through the Helpline and regional family support) and in our impact on the responses of other agencies to families affected by imprisonment (e.g. through influencing policy and practice, through partnership work, and support of other organisations that work with families).
- Collaboration with other organisations is key to achieving our aims and to ensuring families have the best possible support, where and when they need it.
- We are committed to developing and maintaining high standards of financial and management practice in order to ensure efficiency and accountability to our clients, stakeholders, and funders.

Brief History

The Scottish Forum on Prisons and Families was established in 1991 by professionals in criminal justice and childcare organisations who recognised that the needs of families affected by imprisonment were overlooked by all parts of the system. Initially hosted by Save the Children, the Forum initiated research into the impact of imprisonment on family members, which led to the Scottish Prison Service (SPS) establishing the role of Family Contact Development Officer (now FCOs) within prisons. The SPS also provided continued support through chairmanship of the Forum, the secondment of an officer to the Forum as the base from which to develop the FCDO role, and, until June 2015, a financial contribution to the Scottish Prisoners' Families Information Line (now the Families Outside Support & Information Helpline), set up in 1998, which provides a national confidential freephone service.

During 2001/02, the Management Committee of the Forum reviewed the progress of the organisation and subsequently implemented a change of name (to Families Outside) and constitutional status, appointed a Board of Directors with an independent chairman, and recruited a full time Director who joined the organisation in January 2003. The organisation has continued to grow ever since, taking an active role in the development of policy and practice nationally and in supporting locally-based family services. In October 2008, Families Outside entered into direct service provision for the first time through the recruitment of full-time family support workers.

In 2009/10, the Board restructured its Constitution, streamlining membership of the Board to create a smaller, more strategic group. Significant amongst these changes was that Board members would now be selected for the expertise they could contribute rather than automatically including people from particular organisations.

Current Challenges

A number of developments have an ongoing impact on the work of Families Outside. These include the following:

Transitions in community justice

Scotland's eight Community Justice Authorities ceased to operate on 31 March 2017, with Community Justice Scotland coming into force on 1 April 2017, alongside greater responsibility for community justice at local authority (Community Planning Partnership) level. Transition to the new model has gone well overall, and the Chief Executive of Community Justice Scotland is a long-time friend of Families Outside. New models of operation do however have their uncertainties and require strategic engagement from our small staff team with a larger number of contacts throughout Scotland. Further, legislative changes towards a presumption against prison sentences of less than 12 months and increased use of electronic monitoring may reduce the prison population while posing new challenges for families. This in turn may change the type and level of demand for our service.

Single Outcomes

Scottish local authorities have autonomy for their own governance as long as they work towards agreed national outcomes. This means that they have responsibility for allocation of funding. While some central government funding remains ring-fenced (e.g. Criminal Justice Social Work), non-statutory services increasingly have to apply directly to each of the 32 local councils to secure funding for their work. The current preference from the Scottish Government for Public Social Partnerships has mitigated against this challenge to some extent, though the shift in funding to Community Planning Partnerships under the Community Justice Act maintains funding at local levels.

Political uncertainty

The 2016 'Brexit' result continues to underline the political differences north and south of the border, with the precise impact on Scotland uncertain and the possibility of a further referendum for Scottish Independence a possible consequence. Further powers have been devolved to increase Scotland's fiscal autonomy, yet the likely result of Brexit is that powers currently under the auspices of the EU will return to Westminster – not necessarily to the devolved Scottish Government. Meanwhile, the Conservative majority government in Westminster continues with a programme of austerity likely to have an immediate impact on the families we support. This means that the Scottish Government is facing significant budget cuts, and the families we support are at continued risk of benefits sanctions and an increasingly restrictive welfare system.

Financial hardship and welfare reform

At a time when the demand for our work is increasing, continuing financial austerity means that funding for our work, especially over the longer term, remains uncertain. Meanwhile, many of the families we support have been facing reductions in income due to ongoing changes in the social welfare system – something the new devolved powers for social welfare will only partially address. Families Outside has the benefit of working towards preventative policies over both the short and long term, which is appealing to funders in times of financial hardship. The reality, however, is that many voluntary organisations and businesses are losing their funding, and both Government and Trust funds have less money to distribute.

Key Objectives (Outcomes) and Targets 2018 – 2021

Key Objectives (Outcomes) for 2018 - 2021

Based on this context, vision, and core values, the Key Objectives (Outcomes) for Families Outside for the period of 2018 – 2021 are as follows:

- To improve outcomes for children and families affected by imprisonment, policy makers, decision makers, and relevant service providers will be well-informed about the issues facing families affected by imprisonment. They will recognise prisoners’ families within their remit and take the needs of these families into account in the decisions they make and the services they provide.
- Families affected by imprisonment can readily access appropriate information and support at the time they need it. This in turn will improve their outcomes so that they can live healthy, active lives free from stigma and disadvantage.
- To improve outcomes for children and families affected by imprisonment, Families Outside will provide a sustainable and viable service as long as the demand for its work is evident.

Targets for 2018 - 2021

In order to achieve these outcomes, our targets include the following actions:

- Raise awareness and influence policy and practice regarding families affected by imprisonment;
- Provide and increase direct support and information to families; and
- Ensure viability, effectiveness and impact of the organisation.

These outcomes are essential and ongoing. Methods of and progress towards achieving these outcomes are detailed in the Families Outside Operational Plan and are updated annually.